

In PSHE, we read Lucy's Blue Day by Christopher Duke and talked about we can have different feelings at different times of the day. We talked about what feeling blue means. We all know it's important to tell an adult if we just don't feel right.

We used red, yellow, green and white paint to mix new colours. We made our splodges into feeling folk. They look great on our classroom wall.

On Mental Health Day, we all wore a yellow bow tie which we had decorated.
